

Tocqueville Society Retirement Legacy Program

A commitment that lasts beyond retirement.

The Tocqueville Society Retirement Legacy Program provides an opportunity for retiring individuals to maintain an active role in improving our community.

Tocqueville Society Retirement Legacy Program

United Way is making it easier for you to stay active in the Tocqueville Society, even into your retirement. Thanks to a generous matching fund from a United Way donor, you continue your personal legacy as a champion of families, seniors, children and people with disabilities, today.

How the Tocqueville Society Retirement Legacy Program Works

Any current Tocqueville Society member who is in the process of retiring or has recently retired is eligible for the Retirement Legacy Program. These members may extend their status for a two-year period, with a commitment of giving $5,000 per year.

How to Maintain Your Tocqueville Membership

- Pair a $5,000 donation with a planned gift of $50,000 or more (if a planned gift is not already established)
- Begin giving at the $10,000 level again
- Use the 5-year Tocqueville Society step-up plan:
 - Year one: $5,000
 - Year two: $6,000
 - Year three: $7,000
 - Year four: $9,000
 - Year five: $10,000

Don't let retirement change the things that matter most.

Stay involved in the important work of United Way. Your leadership makes a difference to thousands of people in our community every day. Let's keep the great work going together.
